Dear Hiring Manager

I am looking to apply for the Web Engineering position at the Phoenix, Arizona location; I am also available for the same position in New York, New York and Sunrise, Florida. I am interested in working in the Web Engineering position and I am excited to begin working with American Express. I will bring my knowledge, determination, loyalty and leadership and problem solving skills to your team.

I have experience with JavaScript; I have certification in HTML and CSS, HTML5, along with many adobe applications. I have experience with design and writing and altering code. I am very determined and will work hard for the goals of the company. In my past career experience I have been loyal to my jobs and have maintained only 2 positions throughout all of my working career. I enjoy working with people and being able to problem solve. I will be professional and communicate effectively.

I have had experience working and designing different types of websites. I have worked on updating and fixing the Rose Creek Elementary's site and now working on developing a website for Ross Roofing as well as one for my personal portfolio. I have worked with many other people on these projects, both with people that have a similar understanding of coding and design as well as with people that don't necessarily have an understanding in that field. As I have worked on all of these projects I have maintained a good work ethic and can complete the proper work in a timely manner. As a younger female developer I am full of new ideas and valuable input. Although I don't meet in person with many of my clients on a daily basis, I still communicate clearly with my clients as well as my coworkers on a project and am able to produce the proper work.

I look forward to meeting with you for this position. I would love for the opportunity to meet with you and discuss my qualifications for this position. I will email you within two weeks to follow up with you. Thank you for your time and consideration.
